RHINO Dead Throne Monarch

Sounding more like it was recorded in the band's garage with a minimum of equipment, it's obvious that this export from Spain has a penchant for SOULFLY and SEPULTURA, which is even evident from the cover art as well as the music. With completely indiscernible vocals and just a three-piece to slam it all out, they might not have the polish of their heroes, but they do have heart. The music is very good, although produced very cheaply and although it's done in English (I think?), it's still impossible to know what the hell is being said from singer/growler Javier Galvez's mouthfuls of phlegm! He sounds more like Max Cavellera doing a Lemmy impression than anything else.

Not something that I'd warm up to anytime soon, but old-school SEPULTURA fans will find this one interesting enough to push their mouse over to ARCTIC MUSIC GROUP to snag a copy and check out their other stable of great artists. For fans of the Brazilian Metal bands that have pre-cursed this one only!!!
