Foo's United On Side Project

Foo Fighters guitarist Chris Shiflett will use the band's extended downtime to promote his longtime side project Jackson United. Shiflett still has some familiar faces in the group, as both Dave Grohl and Taylor Hawkins lent guest drum tracks to the recently released "Harmony And Dissidence" record. "They play drums between the two of them on the new record," Shiflett explains. "They're both such ridiculous drummers that they just listen to the song and play it the right way and it's better than anything you could've ever thought of. There wasn't a whole lot of instruction involved." The guitarist, who fronts the band, says the group recorded 16 tracks in 16 days. He'll now take the band out on tour, but Shiflett says Grohl and Hawkins will not be joining him.
