

RHINO BUCKET
"THE LAST REAL ROCK N' ROLL"
IN STORES APRIL 21, 2017!

"We never did a ballad. Never will," states Rhino Bucket singer/rhythm guitarist Georg Dolivo. And the dozen songs on Rhino Bucket's aptly titled seventh studio album bear witness to his statement: The dirty dozen tunes on The Last Real Rock 'N' Roll are no-holds-barred rockers boasting irresistible sing-along choruses, stellar solos, and gut-roiling rhythm section - if you don't stomp your feet to "Falling Down the Stairs" and bang your head to "The Devil You Know," check your pulse.

Rhino Bucket has lost none of the hunger, propulsion, beer drinkin' 'n' hell-raising that they began with in 1988, leading Jesse Fink, author of The Youngs: The Brothers Who Built AC/DC, to boldly state: "More than any other band, Rhino Bucket has awakened the ghost of Bon Scott. His spirit lives in their music. They're more AC/DC than AC/DC - and that's saying something."

Produced by Eddie Spaghetti (Supersuckers), Rhino Bucket is also joined by original guitarist and co-founder Greg Fields, who co-wrote three songs, with Dolivo observing, "It was nice to combine the beginning spirit of the band with where we are now."
