FEATURES: SIGHTS & SOUNDS

Whew...

That, in a word, sums up the amazing onslaught of superb new video releases over the past couple of months as the music biz sharpens its sights on new DVD releases and probes more obscure artists for both vintage footage and original offerings. Consequently, even the most dedicated collector is served with a plethora of new releases that are beginning to rival their CD counterparts in terms of quantity and variety.

The legendary Green On Red reunites after a nearly two-decade absence with a show that took place last year in their hometown environs of Tucson Arizona. It's well documented on Valley Fever/Live At The Rialto (Brinkfilm), possibly the only live Green On Red DVD in existence.
