Look At All The Love We Found: A Tribute To Sublime
(Music Video Distributors)

This CD/DVD package collects performances and interviews from a 2005 benefit concert paying tribute to the music of Sublime. Not being a fan of Sublime's music, I can't say I found this exciting to watch or listen to, but the variety of groups that took part in the concert (Los Lobos, Fishbone, Unwritten Law, Blackalicious and Ozomatli to name a few) does act as a strong testament to Sublime's ability to incorporate elements as seemingly disparate as hip-hop, punk, folk and reggae into their music. Although fans would probably rather see old footage of the band themselves than a collection of covers, the line-up of bands chosen to perform should please them.
