

Film: "Last Shop Standing"

DATE/TIME: Apr 12 2013 - 7:00pm - 9:00pm

LOCATION: Community Room

In recognition of Record Store Day, this film, inspired by a book of the same name by Graham Jones, is being shown in advance of its official U.S. release. The film examines the rapid rise of record shops from the 1960s to the 1980s, the rise of the CD and new technologies and the effect that the continuing rise in downloading is having on record shops. Record shop owners and musicians share how record shops have been a part of their musical education as places to discover new brands and new music. Community Room

Co-sponsored by the library and Princeton Record Exchange.

Submitted by KDorman on March 22, 2013 - 3:02pm

Tags:
