Toronto's FAMOUS UNDERGROUND recently released their self-titled debut album, which has been receiving rave reviews worldwide. The song 'Forever And A Day' entered Holland's Hit Tracks Top 100 Chart - which is into its 36th year - at #98 and jumped to #79 in its second week. In celebration of their self-titled debut album, Famous Underground headlined the Rock Social at the Opera House in town on June 7th. Footage of the band covering MOTÖRHEAD's classic 'Ace Of Spades' can be viewed below:

Famous Underground will release their self-titled debut album on July 2nd in the US via MVD. The album is currently out now via Conveyor Canada/Universal Music.

Folks that remember life before grunge may recall the Canadian hard rock outfit kicking up a proverbial storm in the early '90s. SLIK TOXIK achieved Gold status in Canada with their full length Doin' The Nasty, and took home the 1993 Juno Award (Canada's version of the Grammy) for Best Album Of The Year. Sadly, in spite of their success, Slik Toxik called it quits in 1995 as grunge tightened its hold on the music scene. Nick Walsh and lead guitarist Rob Bruce formed the modern rock/hardrock band RAISED ON MARS, and together they released a self-titled debut. Walsh went on to form the hardrock band REVOLVER with CRASH KELLY's guitarist Sean Kelly. Revolver have produced two albums, one being a CD/DVD set. In 2011 the band changed its name to Famous Underground.
