

DEAD KENNEDYS

The Dead Kennedys long since deceased 'In God we trust, Inc.' recordings of June 18, 1981 have been resurrected to DVD! The eventual EP release of the sessions of August 22, 1981 went on to gain the band further acclaim on the back of their legendary album 'Fresh fruit for rotting Vegetables'. N.B.

These eight tunes can now be found on the as extras on the 'Plastic Surgery Disasters' CD release.

However, the original Subterranean Studios songs had to be consigned to the archives because of a technical problem with the master tape. The development of technology has resulted in the upgrading of the inaugural tunes, with the added bonus of the accompanying video footage of Jello Biafra, East Bay Ray, Klaus Fluoride and D. H. Peligro hard at work in the studio.

This powerful package from the punk files of Music Video Distributors captures both the fire and fun of the premier hard core US outfit. The DK's picked up the mantle of the UK spirit of '76 in order to create a unique American aural assault. Biafra & co. leave no stone unturned as their anarchy attacks apathy, and everyone from moronic racists, religious bigots, twisted politicians, and capitalist filth feel the sting of the DK dynamism.

The power of their studio work is replicated in an even more full on live format on the DVD, via the added attraction of the 'In God we trust, Inc.'

Material rearing its rebellion through a series of live performances, shot between 1979 & 1986. The evidence is conclusive these boys put on a show, and the audience involvement is at the heart of the exuberance! A DK gig is a free for all, as the crowd and band become one in a cauldron of chaos, and the ferocity levels reach fever pitch! A maelstrom of emotion the Dead Kennedys nail their hearts to your tv screens on the runaway riot that is 'In God we trust, Inc.-The Lost Tapes', a DVD loaded with TNT!
