The English Beat

In Concert At The Royal Festival Hall

Having been a fan of The Beat (aka The English Beat outside the UK) for quite a long time, getting a chance to finally see a live performance, even if on tape, was enticing. I wish it was a show from the '80s though and not within the last few years, as the band has clearly lost a little bit of their youthful energy. Nevertheless, they perform right on throughout most of the show and it's obvious by the crowd's response that they still have what it takes. Not an amazingly well shot live video, but definitely of interest to fans.
