ANDREW WK
WHO KNOWS? DVD
MVD
9 out of 10
Band Website

All I can say is it's about time! Why did it take so damn long to get out a DVD of one of the most energetic, lively performers of all time? Andrew WK, is a performer who plays by his own rules and so does this DVD. This DVD, as narrated by WK himself documents his rise from humble beginnings: taking the train in NY for hours to play with his keyboard and drum machine in front of 5 people, to realizing that this music was bigger than him alone, moving to Florida, finding new musicians, coming back to NY and then taking on the world!

This DVD is jam packed with live performances from all over the globe, showcasing all of his greatest songs like "She Is Beautiful", "You Will Remember Tonight" and "We Want Fun". Some of which are nothing short of Epic, the lighting, the sound, the performances in Japan where he performed in a wheelchair due to a broken foot. Then some are just....annoying I guess? Only because the sound is so horrific you can tell it was filmed RIGHT next to a speaker.

Aside from the live footage there is a glimpse into who AWK is. I once read in an interview (in regards to why his face was smashed on the cover of his smash debut "I Get Wet") where he said, "I hate being bored, when I get bored I'll do anything I can to break that, so I smashed my face with a cinder block." You can tell there were scenes in this DVD where...well...Andrew got bored. With an almost creepy Silent Hill type environment, there are scenes where Andrew will stare at the camera, without blinking for a good minute. Then he just screams for another minute, not blinking or taking a breath the whole time. Other scenes where you find yourself in a dark, run down apartment room where the door is open a crack. Just enough to let you see into the hall After a minute of just this, Andrew flashes by and other scenes where he is seemingly birthed by a couch.

All in all this DVD follows no path and leads its life (or running time) how it please, like Andrew WK does. This is a perfect history lesson and look into the life of one of the most heart felt, energetic and genuine performers ever. If not apparent already, this DVD proves that AWK doesn't do this for the money or the fame. He does this so we can all be happy if only for one shining moment and have fun, if just for one night. Thank you Andrew WK! By
