DIO doing the entire Holy Diver live, the good thing about Dio is that he can still pull it off with flying colors. This set came out as DVD and a CD, and a best thing to do is to get both. This is really a treat for the fans. Besides the mentioned album, there are more great surprises. The opening track is "Tarot Woman" pulled from the RAINBOW; it turns into SABBATH'S "Sign Of The Southern Cross". And if that wasn't enough, we get "Gates Of Babylon", another excellent RAINBOW track. It seems like Ronnie has little bit of a cold, this shows especially when he sings heavier, but still sounds excellent on high notes. I could be wrong, but that's my impression. It's an outstanding set by one of rock's greatest voices. Contact: www.eaglerockent.com

The Origin Of The Species is a new DVD about LED ZEPPELIN. It is an unauthorized release without band's involvement. This is one of those critical review DVD that deals with how this band functioned, and what made it tick. There are some very rare clips, interesting commentary, and a lot of information. ZEPPELIN collectors will find this very interesting, but not essential. It's worth investigating if you want to find out rare facts about the band, and even musical history of the individual members. Bruce Dickinson's DVD Anthology has it all. This is really great project combining all Dickinson's solo ventures. The first disc begins with the long-lost Dive Dive Dive show from 1990. It is supplemented by Skunkworks Live in Spain. The second show was only available as a bootleg video tape, so it's a great treat. Second disc has more recent Dickinson show. An hour long performance from Sao Paulo filmed during the Chemical Wedding tour. This is very intense show with Bruce really regaining his roots. Disc three has all promotional video clips, many of them I see here for the first time. In addition, SAMSON'S Biceps Of Steel is also included. This is very well put together and packaged. Dickinson fans are filled with joy once again. Get it today!!! Contact: www.sanctuaryrecords.com

ANATHEMA's new DVD A Moment In Time comes from their performance at Poland's Metalmania Festival. In addition there's another shorter performance from Krakow. Both times, ANATHEMA looks and plays with conviction. Besides the already enjoyable material the band surprises with a very impressive cover of PINK FLOYD's "Comfortably Numb". A great DVD to add to your ANATHEMA collection, or perhaps to see a great band for the first time. Contact: www.musicvideodistributors.com

Keith Emerson At The Movies is a collection of various soundtracks. Emerson known for his hunting keyboard sounds in ELP, here does it to illustrate various pictures. The best on these is perhaps Nighthawks. It's a thriller with Sylvester Stallone. It is a very enjoyable and moody music to listen to, and one never knows where it might take you. AMON AMARTH is another group with three DVD assault. Wrath of the Norsemen includes five performances. AMON AMARATH is a band that really comes alive on stage. This band is just fire in a live situation, and should be seen. After seeing this DVD, it's easy to realize that records are simply not enough to properly understand AMON AMARATH. This is a very nicely packaged set, but just from looking at the front cover you get the impression this will burn, and it does. Contact: www.metalblade.com

TORTURE's Storm Alert is finally seeing the light of day again. This was a difficult album to find. In fact, I'm hearing it for the first time. Long time ago there was also an ep, which I recall ordering through mail order. TORTURE plays classical heavy metal, with no gimmicks. Just heavy music, the way it was supposed to sound. It's an album that you can listen to all the way through, and enjoy it. There are no hits, just good heavy music. It's a shame bands like these had to struggle in the late 80s, but that's life. THE CROWN finally has a DVD out. It's a three disc set titled 14 Years of No Tomorrow. This is heavy, brutal, and there are no compromises, much like the band itself. What you get here are three shows ranging from year 2000 to 2003. The band looks and sounds great on all three shows, but you expected that. The third disc is a compilation of bootleg material that dates even beyond the year 2000. This is well put together, and aimed at THE CROWN fans. UFO had a new double CD compilation titled One Of Those Nights-The Collection. It isn't the typical UFO best of, in fact, it's nothing like it. This set concentrates on the 1992. Disc one includes the entire High Stakes & Dangerous Men; it even includes a bonus track. The second disc includes Live In Tokyo, a show from 1992. Now this is where it gets strange. The second disc also includes Live In Texas from 1979. This completely does not fit the spirit of this collection. The only thing the both have in common is the year they were both released. All of it is supplemented with a very nice booklet, good notes, and timely photos. Aside from the above mentioned mismatch, this is a great set, as all of these albums remain deleted. METALMANIA 2005 is another installment of the yearly release documenting the festival. The DVD portion of the set includes all of the stars of the event: NAPALM DEATH, THE HAUNTED, TURBO, PAIN, APOCALYPTICA, DARK FUNERAL, AMON AMARTH. The CD portion includes lesser known bands performing on the side stage. Once again, this is very well put together compilation that gives away the intensity and the spirit of the event. This DVD had great performances and incredible audience reaction. Contact: www.musicvideodistributors.com
