

CHROME / HELIOS CREED - Dual Forces DVD (Music Video Distributors)

First school's in session: Chrome was started by Damon Edge in the mid-70s as a psychedelic glam rock band, but soon after meeting guitarist Helios Creed, they became the techno-punk outfit many fell in love with. A rock-n-roll band very much ahead of their time (practically inventing Drum 'N' Bass - check out the 1979 LP Alien Soundtracks for proof). This DVD collects all the known Chrome music videos from 1980 - 83 ("Dangerzone", "Meet You In the Subway", etc) as well as a brief live show (bad sound though). The disc also contains all Helios Creed music videos (in case you are unaware HC went on to do half a dozen solo albums after Edge's death), as well as a Helios live show (good sound quality here). As an extra you get a timeline of the band too. If you aren't a fan, don't go starting with this, but once you are... come back. (Sept 05, 2006)
