

NRBQ & The Whole Wheat Horns

"Derbytown"

(MVD)

By: Paul Autry

There seems to be a lot of NRBQ material floatin' around out there and this release, while being somewhat short, was rather entertaining. The main program is a 13 song concert performance that was filmed in Louisville, Kentucky back in 1982 and even though I have no idea how you would describe the musical style of NRBQ...because they seem to do a little bit of everything...I'd have to say that this show was a very raw, rock 'n' roll show. You won't see a performance like this in this day and age. It's a band gettin' personal with their audience. Great stuff, especially if you're a fan of the band.

The bonus material isn't much of a bonus. Three items, the best of the bunch being a 1981 television performance of a song called "Me & The Boys." The other two items are short promo films and what they were meant to promote, I have no idea. The band I guess. Both of those were filmed back in 2000. Wrap it all up and you have a nice, neat little NRBQ package.

<http://www.nrbq.com>

<http://www.mvdvisual.com>

http://ballbusterhardmusic.com/hard_vision/05-2007.html