Win tickets to the new Bond film

Answers to us by Fri 10 Nov. Senders of the first 10 correct entries picked from the glove compartment of the editor's Bentley will be pronounced the winners. Entry Code: Bond
Ffi: 08712 240240 or www.myvue.co.uk

Thanks to Vue Cinema Cribbs Causeway, we have 10 pairs of tickets for the much-anticipated new Bond flick, 'Casino Royale', on Wed 15 Nov at 8pm. Grab your chance to witness the 21st edition to the Bond legacy (the charity regional premiere, no less), as 007 returns, played for the first time by blue-eyed smooth-talker Daniel Craig ('Layer Cake'/'Munich'). Follow JB's attempts to thwart a tyrannical terrorist over a hand of poker in this classic Ian Fleming remake.

To be in with a chance of winning, simply correctly answer the following question: How does James Bond like his Martini served?

- a) On the rocks
- b) Shaken, not stirred
- c) Straight up, with a pickled egg garnish

Win Monty Python's Flying Circus on CD

Answers to us by Fri 10 Nov. Senders of the first five correct entries picked from the art editor's dead parrots will be pronounced the winners. Entry Code: Monty
Ffi: www.bbcshop.com

BBC Audiobooks are reissuing the classic melting pot of comedy madness and chaotic absurdity that was 'Monty Python's Flying Circus'. Listen to the best of Cleese, Idle, Palin, Gilliam, Chapman and Jones, and some of the best sketches, songs, catchphrases and ad hoc bursts of bizarreness. It's no exaggeration to say the group has had one of the most profound influences on comedy as we know it. And we've got five of the CDs to give away.

To be in with a chance of winning, simply respond correctly to the following riddle: Complete the famous Python catchphrase: "And now for something..."

- a) Else
- b) Completely different
- c) With jam in the middle

Win tickets to see Ben Kweller at Trinity

Answers to us by Fri 10 Nov. The first three correct entries to be picked from the food editor's ukulele case win the tickets. Entry Code: Ben
Ffi: www.benkweller.com

Hot on the heels of his deliciously good, self-titled fourth album 'Ben Kweller', the man himself brings his Texan tones and beguiling brand of adult indie-pop to the revamped Trinity on Fri 17 Nov. We've got three pairs of tickets to see the former Radish frontman performing, complete with six-piece band and organ.

To be one of three lucky winners, simply answer this acoustic conundrum: Which other American of the same forename did Kweller tour with as The Bens?

- a) Ben Folds
- b) Ben Dover
- c) Ben Benjamin Bennyson

Win Bob Dylan: The Unauthorised Documentaries DVD box set

Answers to us by Fri 10 Nov. Senders of the first three correct entries picked from the largest megaphone at the film editor's roadside peace vigil win the goods. Entry Code: Dylan
Ffi: www.bobdylan.com

Bob Dylan's effect on the world of popular music has been immeasurable during a career spanning five decades. The American singer-songwriter, known for nasally anthemic anti-war and civil rights-themed hits with a trademark harmonica, has had his most memorable tours of the 60s and 70s documented in 'Bob Dylan: The Unauthorised Documentaries'. We've got three sets, each including the CD soundtrack to 'Rolling Thunder' and 'The Gospel Years' with nine exclusive postcards.

To be in with a chance of winning one, simply tell us the name of Bob's well-known 60s protest song.

- a) Throwin' in the Wind
- b) Glowin' in the Wind
- c) Blowin' in the Wind
