Bob Dylan 1966 World Tour [The Home Movies] (Highway 61 Entertainment). 2 ½ ribs-needs more meat on those bones.

With all the unauthorized documentaries out on Bob Dylan it's hard to know which to sift through. With a set of drums and an 8mm color home movie camera, Mickey Jones toured the world with Bob Dylan and The Band. He captured a lot of this tour and the goings-on back stage and on the tour bus. While this documentary is relatively enjoyable, because of its candid shots, it's more of a retelling of stories Jones' remembers with accompanied tourist home movies, with only mere glimpses of band life or concert experiences. Jones would have done better with a good editor. By Freddie Lancaster
