Music Mondays Presents Tim Buckley, My Fleeting House

Tonight, Alamo Music Mondays and MVD present a DVD release party for Tim Buckley: My Fleeting House, the first ever collection of rare Buckley performances, appearances and interviews.

The film features thirteen full-length performances from the brilliantly unusual singer/songwriter, and it also includes interviews with Larry Beckett (Buckley's longtime co-writer), Lee Underwood (Buckley's guitarist) and Buckley himself. It's not really a full-on documentary about his life, but the performances span his entire (relatively short) career, from his early folk material through to his jazz and rock periods. Buckley novices and mega-fans alike will love it--it's a thoroughly absorbing tour through the career of a hugely underappreciated talent.

And did we mention that The Lovely Sparrows will be playing before the movie? And that it's FREE?
