

Gothic Vampires From Hell (2007)

Summary: The Goth band, "Gothic Vampires from Hell," is trying to make a move to get a record deal. Tonight in their night to shine and before they know it...they'll get one. But what price when the record exec is actually a vampire and is looking for a contract to run, eternally!

Overall: Well the pros of a movie like this is the Goth scene. Not too many films out there emphasizing this "hidden" gem of talent. Got some good groups here and maybe a little too much music video atmosphere. But if you were looking for "Goth," you've come to the right place. The soundtrack and sounds will fill your need up. Unfortunately there are some cons...the effects. They're just not good enough. The animation is cheesy but the real low-light was the "blood" scenes. The tubes used to pump out the blood in dying victims is just too obvious. Anyone can see them and that's acceptable. Much of the time, the amount of blood is too constant and too much for anyone of them to be engaging in a 2 minute dialogue scene. But when it does come out and flow down the floor, you need better cover up. Unacceptable.

Comparison: Vampiyaz meets Leprechaun 6
