

Tattoo Talk: Die Pretty lead vocalist and bassist Sarah Orloff

Interviews » by: Chee Kam on Mar 25, 2012 at 05:16PM 0 Comments and 0 Reactions

Like Tweet 3 2

Die Pretty are a pop-punk band from New York that I cannot stop listening to. If you have watched their music videos you will notice their pretty cute vocalist/bassist, Sarah Orloff, owning a good amount of ink. I recently got the chance to ask Sarah about her tattoos. Also check out their music video for "Voices" under the interview to see and hear her and the bands greatness.

When and what was your first tattoo?

Sarah: My first tat was the typical "tramp stamp" of a butterfly on my lower back! I was 18 years old.

Any of your tattoos have any special meaning behind it? If so what?

Sarah: A lot of my tattoos have to do with my love of music. I'm the lead singer and bass guitar player for NYC rock group Die Pretty. I have a microphone on my shoulder and a girl playing stand up to my arm because of my love of singing and rocking out on the bass in my band.

Who does your tattoos?

Sarah: Jim Pardi of Sling' N Ink Tattoo in Albany, NY has done all of my tattoos

Do you plan on getting any more in the near future?

Sarah: Yes! I've been brainstorming different ideas lately of what to get next. I may get an eagle tattoo since that's what my last name means. Possibly on my back.

Have you seen any fans with Die Pretty tattoos?

Sarah: Yes I met a fan at one of our shows who had the wilted sunflower Die Pretty logo tattooed on her back. I felt really happy that our music inspired her enough to do that!

If you had to get someone's face tattooed on you, who's would it be and why?

Sarah: I would probably get a tattoo of Betty Page since I love pinup girl artwork and she was the coolest one going! She's an icon and I would be proud to have her face tattooed on me!

Street Date May 8th 2012