The holidays are upon us once more, and it's time for the Reverend to make recommendations for that special person on your gift list (or yourself, if you're prone to buying yourself a few items this time of year).

First up on the 2011 Blues Christmas Gift Guide are the "you-know-you're-gonna-want-one" "Guitar Gods" bobblehead figures from Aggronautix. The series launched back in the summer with an uber-cool Johnny Winter figure, a limited-edition 7" poly-resin bobblehead packaged in a multi-panel box. When you push the button on the figure's base, Johnny screams "rock 'n' roll" at ya!

Aggronautix has announced two more limited-edition "Guitar Gods" figures in the form of Wayne Kramer (MC5) and James Williamson (The Stooges), both musicians recently named in Rolling Stone magazine's "100 Greatest Guitarists of All Time." As a member of Detroit's punk icons MC5, Kramer fused electric blues, high-energy rock 'n' roll, and free-jazz (think Sun Ra) in the creation of an entirely new musical blueprint. Williamson contributed to the Stooges' landmark Raw Power album, and continued to record with Stooges' frontman Iggy Pop on albums like Kill City and New Values. Both guitarists have been immensely influential on a generation of punk and rock artists.

If the person on your gift list is more of a punk than blues or classic rock fan, Aggronautix also has a line of punk-oriented "throbbheads", the same high-quality, limited-edition poly-resin figures as their "Guitar Gods" series, featuring punk icons like G.G. Allin, Tesco Vee (The Meatmen), and the recently-announced "Handsome" Dick Manitoba (The Dictators). See what else the Reverend recommends on the 2011 Blues Gift Guide....
