A kidnapping plot goes terribly awry in this locally made 2009 crime drama.

Cleveland writer-director David C. Snyder's gritty feature debut keeps us guessing by jumping back and forth in time.

The main characters are dealing with troubling issues, often resolved in trigger-happy fashion.

But the low-budget film, shot in a gray palette, suffers from woeful acting.

A notable exception is Kyle Jason as a criminal with a change of heart.

Unrated, 98 minutes. Grade: C. Extras: B+. Available Tuesday, March 22.
