BugGiRL

The glaring similarities to AC/DC and the seriously bad pun at work in its recently released EP Blood, Sweat & Beers might turn some people off to Australia BugGiRL before even hearing a note. But to be fair, Mark Opitz (producer for AC/DC's Powerage and Let There Be Rock) helmed the group's newest effort, and the brother-and-sister power-rock duo is wholehearted in its pursuit of big, energetic riffs. What BugGiRL lacks in originality, it makes up for in pretty good drinking music and the comforting familiarity that comes from its heavily classic rock-indebted sound.
