BUGGIRL

Dirt In The Skirt

Inpedance Records

The massive sold out AC/DC shows earlier this year and the constant touring of bands like The Angels shows the enduring quality of pub-rock, or at least it's refusal to roll over and die.

In a whirlwind of hard rock influences and cheeky lyrics come BugGirL, an Australian two piece comprised of siblings Amber and Clinton Spence. With a wicked scream and husky growl Amber captures the spirit of rock and roll rebellion – Bon Scott would be proud. Much like the late Scott's music, Dirt In The Skirt is dripping with innuendo but leaves very little to the imagination: 'I g-g-got that 10-inch itch/I need somebody to flick that switch' (from the song Spread That Eagle). Rock Your City closes the album in a crescendo of smut with 'If you're looking for action, come sit on my face'.

There is a familiarity to BugGirL's music instantly recognisable from the rock giants of the past with blues driven guitars and unashamed shout-out-loud anthems. So long as you're not already tired of hearing the virtues of a rock and roll lifestyle – and lets face it; its been sung about a million times before – you should get a kick out of it. Needless to say, if bogan rock isn't your thing perhaps give this one a miss.

create your Anti-litter Message and Win

Trashmyad is back for 2010 and is bigger and better with more cash prizes and a whole new category to enter!

Littering is ugly, dangerous and just not cool. If you are 25 years or under, we want YOUR creative ideas on how to get the anti-littering message out to your peers.

This year we have expanded the competition into both TV and Print* categories. You can choose whether you would like to submit a TV commercial or a print advertisement that portrays the anti-littering message to youth in a creative and appealing way.

To get all the comp details to prepare your entry, go to www.trashmyad.com.au. You can also view last year's finalists to get some inspiration and see what you need to do to beat the competition!

Good luck!
The Trash My Ad Team

* The Print category is open to 18+ residents only.
