

America: Struttin' Our Stuff — This recording from a German gig in 1999 (originally released in Europe in 2004 and now available in the country of the band's namesake) is more enjoyable than I ever imagined. I think only two members of America's lineup from its Seventies heyday remained for this predominantly acoustic 17-song set, but I heard tracks I didn't even realize America sang. Fortunately, there's much more to this band than "A Horse With No Name."
