Michael Schenker is an absolute guitar god & with this new project, Schenker is totally unplugged & yet he still rocks! The music is more mellow, the guitar parts are part latin, with a touch of jazz, moments of various cultures bleed throughout each song & "Lost" is kinda on the adult contemporary side...it's not a hard rocker by any means, but when you listen to it, you can almost hear how it would sound played on an electric guitar & through a Marshall stack! The beauty of this record is that each song is clean, clear, there's no need to distortion or volume because each song is a beautiful statement that rings freely & the harmony, melody & overall tempo of each song is one of subtle beauty, kinda like seeing a beautiful woman from across a crowded bar...you can admire the beauty of each song as a work of art, yet also enjoy each song on a musical level, because Michael might be unplugged on this entire record, but he still plays his ass off!
