

Adam Cornelius - "Ecstasy Of Order: The Tetris Masters" [DVD Review]

Reviews // Film Review » by: Bruce Moore on Feb 08, 2013 at 06:04PM

1 Comment and 0 Reactions

Share this Article: Like 25 Tweet 4

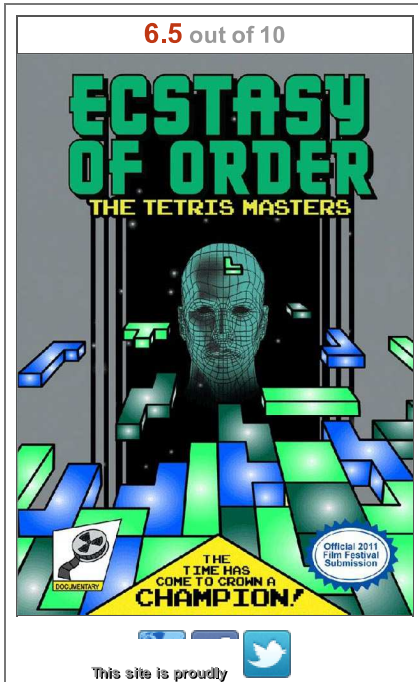

When I saw the title of this film I was sure it was going to be real dud. I was an occasional Tetris player back in the day, but had no idea how seriously people really took the game. At first I was skeptical that a full-length movie devoted to die-hard players could be even remotely interesting. Man was I wrong.

As odd as it might sound, this is a bizarrely fascinating documentary that takes you inside the world of the competitive Tetris circuit. The movie is based around a quest to track down the world's best players as they prepare for the 2010 Classic Tetris World Championship, (I had no idea that even existed). As you might expect, viewers will meet some extremely interesting characters including the 1990 World Champion and Tetris child prodigy Thor Aackerfund who is extremely enthusiastic about the game and virtually lives and breathes it.

As far as documentaries go this is a decent one. I found myself totally engrossed in a world that I did not even know existed and was more than intrigued at the inner working of this unlikely subculture, so much so that I found myself waiting in anticipation for the end results of the competition. Check it out.

Run Time: 93 minutes
Release Date: August 21, 2012

Check out the movie trailer

FOLLOW US

Want our content delivered to your inbox?

Subscribe

DOWNLOADS

- 22 grabs Rooftop Revolutionaries
"Complicity"
Hard Rock / Rock
- 21 grabs VolumeFeeder
"Slave to the System"
Heavy Rock / Metal
- 9 grabs Seeker
"Alone"
Heavy Metal / Technical Metal
- 6 grabs Chosen
"Engines of Belief"
Metal
- 65 grabs Secrets of the Sky
"Decline"
Progressive / Black Metal / Doom
- 16 grabs Choirs
"Can't Stop"
Rock / Pop
- 18 grabs Destruction Unit
"Evil Man"
Hard Rock / Rock
- 26 grabs Orchid's Curse
"Lie to Live the Lie"
Metal
- 288 grabs Black Coffe
"Weddings and Funerals"
Hardcore / Punk
- 90 grabs Case Closed
"Junior Year"
Rock / Indie / Pop