

www.metalcorefanzine.com

BELIEVER/Dimensions (Metal Mind Productions) This was a strange release and this was also the bands 3rd and last release. The band play on this some really weird and complex thrash with lots of time changes, violins, chellos and other weird stuff. Don't get me wrong this is still heavy and thrashy, but I can see that the band was out growing just being a thrash band and were moving off in different directions. This will take a few listens to get into and I have listened to this several times and I have heard something new each time I have hard this. If your open minded you will and can appreciate this as I did. Info: www.mvdb2b.com