

<http://www.metalcorefanzine.com/>

THERAPY/High Anxiety (Metal Mind Productions) This is the bands 1st release and it a bit more metal than the other release above. The vocals are still in the punk vein, but this is more just like metal/punk combo. There is a bit more guitar edge to it and not as much industrial sounds. Now which one is better? They are both cool and each one is different and I actually like this more as I am more into the metal style and this one has a nice mix of metal to it, but both are cool and different. Another cool re-issue and they got a new fan in them, me. Info:

www.mvdb2b.com

- Chris Forbes