

SHELTER/Mantra (Metal Mind Productions) This is another one of those Roadracer re-issues and this came out in the 90's and had Ray singing who used to front Youth of Today. This is a bit like them, but I would say it is less of a hardcore sound and more of just a punk alternative type sound. There is also 3 bonus tracks on here too. The music is a bit of like alternative rock mixed in with punk and they even have a few rap parts, but these guys were doing this way before the big trend. The production is good and there is plenty of intensity and playing on here to keep me happy. Not bad for what it is at all. Info:
