

THE GREAT KAT/Worship Me Or Die (Metal Mind Productions) Well I guess I will die cause I am not worshipping Kat ha ha. This female has the ego of planet earth as you would know if you read some of her interviews over the years. Putting that aside this was back in the day way overhyped speed metal and listening to it today, this is nothing special. Yes Kat can play, but so can lots of other people, but it the songs that make or break you. The songs here are OK, nothing ground breaking and are just standard speed metal with lots of solos and female singing. Yeah Kat throws in some classical riffs, but that doesn't impress me. This to me was more about the hype than the actual music. Nothing to get happy out as it is just if anything more hype than actual quality music. Info:
