Hmmm.....well.....how to say? THIS POSITIVELY SUCKED MONKEY BALLS! For the next

The Adolescents	500 or so words, I'm going to sit here and positively bash everything about Artrosis' "In The Flower's Shade". I'll start by saying Artrosis has no drummer. All "drum sounds" are programmed. Artrosis does have a keyboard player. And they even have a bass and guitar player! As well as some horrible Irish-Wannabe vocalist! IT'S CRAP! I kid you not! Stay away! Don't let them bring this to America (Artrosis is from Poland)!	4. Wakin

Unearth	Because of the over-production, keyboards, and artificial drummer, the music is hugely digitalized. But they add a smoothing of sorts to the music, attempting, I believe, to create a goth sound. I've decided listening to this album is what doing ecstasy must be like. I find myself wondering why the hell someone would want to subject themselves to the hypnotizing monotonous boring-ness of this music and I've come to the conclusion that it is only because of the fact that someone is doped up on drugs that they could tolerate this band's music for any length of time! Changes are very few and far between. I think they add a little distortion to the guitar so as to say they have metal elements...but that couldn't be farther from the truth! And rock and roll almost dictates you have to have that good time, or "up" beat thing going....DEFINITELY NOT PRESENT in this album! And the vocalist does not always sing in English; those of you watching Rockstar's Super Nova here recently will remember the chick who's name started with a "Z"...she's terrible! I think Artrosis's vocalist and "Z" chick went to the same vocalist coach! We need to find that vocalist coach and tell them their services are harmful to the music listening population of the world! Every once in awhile, the guitarist will bust out with a solo...but again...the sound of something that isn't digital greeting your ears is few and far between. So the guitar solo's don't last long or happen often.	7. FleshF
