DECAPITATED – THE FIRST DAMNED CD

Review by Mark Jason Murray

2000
Metal Mind
13 tracks
Playing time: 55 min. 53 sec.

With the domestic reissues being released by Metal Mind productions, several early works by Poland's top death metal acts are getting a little bit more exposure to American fans. Longtime artists of the legendary Earache records, this collection shows the earliest periods of the band from their 1997 demo 'Cemeteral Gardens', 1998 demo 'Eye of Horus' and two live tracks from 2000.

Starting with the 7 tracks from the 1998 demo, this shows the band to be tight and technically proficient lacing their songs with quick guitar riffs and deep death growls. Blasting parts are held together nicely and even more impressive is the fact that the whole band was under 18 years of age when this was recorded. They even throw in a quality cover of Slayer's 'Mandatory Suicide' for good measure.

The 4 tracks from their 1997 demo are still solid tracks yet show a bit simpler songwriting than the previous tracks. The two lives tracks presented are in excellent quality and present the band as a quality death metal outfit. Released in a digipac with lyric booklet and liner notes on the origins of the band.
