

www.metalcorefanzine.com

- chris forbes

SPINAL CORD/Stigma Of Life (Metal Mind Productions) This is well played death metal. The band is straight forward, speedy death metal with no nu metal parts or tough guy vocals. This is just the way death metal should be. While I would not say this is original, it is more that average. The band mix in plenty of weird riffs sort of like Immolation at times and they sound as tight as a pair of tight spandex. The vocals are growls of death that are real death metal vocals and the production it thick and the guitar sound is mint. A goodie here. Info:

www.mvdb2b.com or www.metalmind.com.pl