ELYSIUM/Godfather (Metal Mind Productions) I normally don't like these groove death metal bands, but this was a pretty good one. The band play groove metal with a Swedish death metal sound and a bit of thrash here and there and it made for a decent listen. The singer thank god doesn't do the tough guy style or clean vocal crap, as he just belts out the tunes with pure aggression, but in a tough guy sort of way. The production is good and like I said the songs are good and this wasn't bad for what it was. Info:
