COMMENTS & REVIEWS

Ah! the great ambitious live shows from the 70's Prog bands. "The Wall", "The Lamb Lies Down on Broadway", "Voyage to the Center of the Earth"... to name just a few. Those lucky people that saw these elaborate spectacles have cherished memories of them. She by Prog "super group" Caamora is one of these projects, mixing opera, classical music with Prog Rock, that have become so rare lately.

The culmination of two year's work took place on 31st October 2007 at the Wyspianski Theatre, Katowice, Poland. Spearheaded by Clive Nolan and Agnieszka Swita, this epic production featured also guest musicians: Alan Reed (Pallas/Neo) & Christina Booth (Magenta) on vocals, bassist John Jowitt (IQ, Neo), Mark Westwood (Neo) & Martin Bowen on the guitars, Richard West (Threshold) & Steve Williams on the keyboards as also Scott Higham on the drums. The musical landscape of She is wide and varied: from the close, intimate sounds of voice and piano, through to the exhilaration and power of orchestra and choir, the music is intense and colourful and with such a group of talented musicians and singers, this can only be a threat. In fact all the performances are excellent and the concert is very well filmed and recorded. If you were at that show, you will want to relive it again, if not... this is as close as you can get to having been there.

For those into the grandiose side of Rock or Prog stage productions, She gets my highest recommendation indeed.
