On the rise: Seth Glier Sunday October 18 @ World Cafe Live

POSTED BY MCG

At age 20, Seth Glier has the vocal prowess of a performer with a lifetime of singing experience.

It's almost certain if Glier made a bid for stardom on a show such as American Idol, he'd be an instant fan fave.

But on his latest album, "The Trouble With People," he demonstrates he's much more savvy, refined and skilled than 99% of Idol fare.

It's hard to say who Glier's audience might be exactly. His music is certainly geared towards the coffee house crowd and is equal parts folk, introspective, mellow and wholly from the heart.

His pristine voice on the title track, "The Trouble With People," is direct and full of clarity. And his piano accompaniment is certainly confident for an artist still unable to drink legally.

His new album "The Trouble With People," is out now on iTunes in digital format and sees a traditional CD release on November 3rd.

Glier plays World Cafe Live on Sunday, October 18 as part of an ambitious U.S. tour that will keep him largely on the road through the end of the year.

His talent certainly belies his age. And that voice -- it's pure magic, a visceral happiness, probing, playful and pure. Don't miss an opportunity to see him. -m.clark

I just saw him in Atlanta at Eddies Attic and WOW! I have already bought 5 tunes and have listened to them over and over. Can't get them out of my mind actually. Such a talent!!
