MANIFESTO

TIM BUCKLEY/Look at the Fool: Dropping his folkie stuff to compete for radio space in the early 70s, Buckley warps into a blue eyed soul screamer with radio friendly jazzbos and background vocalists du jour in tow. Well left of mainstream except in heroin/speed addled early 70s LA, this certainly wasn't no update on "Happy/Sad" or a tour of Fred Neil's catalog. Hard core fans will still swear by it, listeners that want to know what Jeff's dad was all about will be slightly puzzled until they enter that canon at other portals first.
