MUSIC NEWS: MVD Video Documents The Rock!

DOCUMENTING THE ROCK! A new series of unauthorized rock documentaries from MVD Video have been released that offer behind the scenes insight into rock's most famous groups. We just recently checked out these three titles: The Killers - Leaving Las Vegas is a documentary about this extraordinary collective and by using interviews with the band and those close to them, rare performance footage, numerous obscure photographs, location shoots and a host of other features, this program is uniquely enlightening, hugely informative, and downright entertaining and is certain to become the standard work on this magnificent band and their meteoric rise from the Las Vegas desert. The Queen DVD Collectors Box is a 2-DVD set that proves at length why this legendary group are still dearly loved by so many. This first disc tells the full story of the band and their entire career, pointing the cameras where they have never previously preyed. The second focuses on their music in the 1970s, with footage of classic songs and photographs even the most hardcore fan will be surprised to see! Bob Dylan: Golden Years 1962-1978 is a 2-disc documentary covering Dylan's life and music from his schooldays to his conversion in the late 1970s to fundamental Christianity. With contributions from colleagues as diverse as his high school English teacher, his school friends and other members from his first bands, to folk musician Martin Carthy, Dylan's only ever songwriting partner, the late Jacques Levy, author Clinton Heylin and many, many others. The disc set features rare film footage; unseen photographs and numerous other features. This program is the finest film from this section of Bob Dylans life and career yet to emerge. All three offer an insightful glimpse into three widely disparate performers. These unauthorized biographies all have a similar feel in production and approach while offering fair representations of the musicians they cover...
