Documentary – 60 minutes

Description: This compelling documentary series unlocks the hidden secrets, psychological flaws and events that result in the tragic deaths of famed notorious and the iconic. Every episode maps out the final 24 hours of a different famous person's life. The series weaves the star's back-story with events from their last day, which lays bare the threads of fate that led inextricably from childhood to the moment of death. These are no ordinary biographies. They're psychological detective stories attempting to uncover the mystery of why the celebrity died. This episode focuses on the last twenty-four hours of Nicole Brown Simpson, wife of famous football star O.J. Simpson. Nicole Brown Simpson started her day with her ordinary run. Little did she know that it would be the last run she would take.

I remember watching as this story unfolded on live TV with unprecedented coverage – from the white Bronco on a freeway near my home to the live courtroom coverage and the many many hours of analysis. Of course, this story has the celebrity angle to it. But I think that I and many others also learned a lot about how our legal system works.

Even with all I thought I knew about this case, I learned some new things from watching Final 24.

Any documentary is going to have some bias to it, but final 24 remains more neutral and more respectful than other programs that I have seen.

RIP Nicole Brown Simpson.

RIP Ron Goldman.

I think he did it. The whole bad acting thing with the glove, like he couldn't get it on his big ham fist ... there's your proof (smirk). Ugh. And Marcia Clark's perm. lol. I hated how it took over the TV, every channel, for like 6 months too. Got soooo sick of seeing bloody sidewalks in Brentwood, and Kato's clueless face and the soulless overpaid lawyers, and the heartbroken families, and Nicole's bruised face from when he kicked her A the other time.

Ugh.

Maybe I don't want to win this after all. ☹️

It was a trial I watched faithfully and was appalled that OJ got off. Guess he’s where he belongs now finally. Thanks for the wonderful giveaway.
