the oh-no! DVD of the week: 'F.A.R.T. The Movie'

According to Wikipedia:

F.A.R.T. the Movie, released in 1991, is about a man named Russell who is obsessed with farting. His girlfriend Heather despises farts and becomes angry with Russell because all he does is watch television and fart. She tells him that if the television turns into fart jokes, then Russell won't even leave the house. Then one night, the television does become all about farts.

Based on the novel by Oscar Wilde, with a screenplay by Tom Stoppard, and directed by Kenneth Branagh, and starring Dame Judi Dench as Heather, and Ian McKellan as Russell. Remember when this swept the Oscars? I always enjoy seeing great artists get showered with appreciation for their finest works.

Isn't this the prequel to "Ass, The Movie"?

Fascinating bit of trivia from IMDb (I'm guessing that it was submitted by the filmmakers themselves):

who I am

I'm MaryAnn Johanson: writer and ponderer in New York City who drinks too much wine and thinks way too much about such inconsequences as movies, TV, books, and the meaning of life.
