"Triple Threat of Terror: Others, Creepersin, DieMonsterDie" CD Review (MVD)

Triple Threat of Terror (MVD Audio) is a fifteen track compilation from three long-running bands from the horror-punk scene. Each band takes five tracks and their music showcases some of the different styles within the genre.

The disc kicks off with Creepersin, which was formed in 2004 and hail from Orange Country, CA. The band has put out a string of singles, EPs and albums with a revolving door lineup where the only constant has been singer/songwriter Creep Creepersin. Creepersin has a 60's / rockabilly sound that sounds like a cross between Michale Graves and X and horror movie lyrics that are similar to Graves' Web of Dharma project.

Creepersin is also a successful film director with credits on a large number of indie films ("Blood Lust Romance", "Meet Me Out in the Sticks" and "OC Babes and the Slasher of Zombietown") and the web show "MKC: Monster Killers Club" and he bridged these worlds by joining forces with film collaborator Gary Griffith ("Before the Rain", "Dustflow") on Creepersin's most recent disc, 2010's Creepersin Reanimated. Creepersin and Griffith have continued recording together for another full-length and some upcoming split releases. The split album Creepersin vs. 13 Tombs: Split Psychosis is due out by the end of 2011.
