What they say: Everyone's favorite martial artist "Bruce" winds up fighting for his life and soul in hell against an evil Warlord intent on making him mincemeat – and he has recruited some of the 1970s most iconic B-movie characters to help dispatch the great one. But when that won't do the trick, he uses monsters, mummies and beautiful women to get the little dragon at any cost – simply the most bizarre horror/ karate movie ever made!

What I say: I just finished this movie and I'm still not sure if I watched a movie or had some sort of fever dream. Bruce Lee upon dying finds himself in hell. He quickly pisses off the Lord of Hell and it's on! Facing off against such 70's stars as James Bond, Clint Eastwood and Dracula Bruce has to fight them all but he has all of hell to fine some folks or creatures to help him.

This is the wildest, weirdest kung fu flick I have ever seen and it is a riot! It's silly and fun but boy hell sure looks like downtown Hong Kong! But you can't take shit like this serious.

As per the norm for CFS Releasing the picture quality is absolute garbage, but that kind of adds to its trashy drive in appeal.

Film: 7/10
