

DVD a Day

"The purpose of a movie critic is to encourage good films and discourage bad ones." -- Roger Ebert.

Amazon Movies

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27, 2012

Kids Go to the Woods ... Kids Get Dead

It's a bit of a cliché...ok, it's a total cliché ... but there's something so totally engaging about this low budget slasher film from writer/director Michael Hall that it's easy enough to unplug your critical senses and just enjoy it. As the title explains, it's the story of a bunch of 'kids' - played by actors who look like they are in their mid-to-late 20s - who spend a weekend in a remote cabin (that looks more like a suburban house than a cabin). They meet a creepy old guy who warns them of strange things happening in the woods, and it isn't long before the strange things start happening to them. The film is played like it's a late night monster movie on TV, complete with a buxom hostess named Candy Adams (Carly Goodspeed), which only adds to the weird atmosphere.

Posted by John Black, Movie Critic at 9:09 AM

Reactions: funny

No comments:

Post a Comment

Newer Post

Home

Older Post

Subscribe to: Post Comments \(Atom\)

Follow by Email

Followers

Join this site
with Google
Friend
Connect

Amazon Deals

Links

- BEG Review Page \(New Releases\)
- Dark Horizons
- Film Critic Larry Ratliff
- FilmCritic.com
- IMDB.com
- Roger Ebert
- The Post Movie Show

About Me