Synopsis

A young Pole comes to London where his brother is exploiting illegal immigrant labourers for a living. Drama from Dominic Lees and Jimmy Gardner

About Cast & Connections

This is the directorial debut of Dominic Lees, who has graduated from those great British schools for actors and filmmakers 'The Bill' and 'Casualty'. His co-writer on the script is Jimmy Gardner whose background is also in TV - beginning with 'The Bill' but moving on to BAFTA-award winning work on 'The Cops' and 'Buried'. Sadly Lees and Gardner's film can't shake off the associations with television. Its low budget tangibly affects the production values: the DV cinematography and sound are pretty rough round the edges while the score sounds like something from television circa 1985. more

In a nutshell

A reasonable effort to explore the experiences of eastern European immigrant workers in London.
