BRICKS AND MORTAR AND LOVE

With all the excitement generated for Record Store Day the third Saturday every April, you might assume the independent record store was doing just fine. But, as this documentary reminds us, in most cases the small mom-and-pop record shop is barely surviving. The movie focuses on Ear X-tasy, Lexington, KY's legendary indie store, as it makes a very public plea for survival. Intimate and, at times, surprisingly sad, the film is a love letter to and from diehard music fans.
