

"Spooks, Hoods & JFK: The Shocking Truth" (2008): First in an anticipated spate of documentaries commemorating the 50th anniversary of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. CIA contract agent and underworld figure the late Chauncey Holt recounts his participation in deep cover black operations run by the intelligence community during the height of the Cold War. Holt carefully connects how these "black ops" were turned against JFK, leading up to his assassination in 1963. Two other documentaries from Bruder Releasing, already released, are being reissued: "I Shot JFK: The Shocking Truth" and "Confessions From the Grassy Knoll: The Shocking Truth," both of which show the meticulous research by private investigator Joe West, who, tipped off by FBI agent Zack Shelton, found a convict named James E. Files, who confessed to being the shooter on the infamous grassy knoll on November 22, 1963 and who implicated organized crime members Charles Nicoletti, Johnny Roselli and Sam Giancana in JFK's death. $14.95 each from MVD Entertainment. - Harley Lond
