

mind Lacuna Coil simply because the band has a female vocalist who can sing & the music is still heavy despite the lack of screaming.

"Supertaint" has really tight rhythm and it's got a really commercial feel to it which makes it instantly memorable.

"Without a Name" is a 6 minute epic that closes out the record and overall I like the bands approach to song writing, they play hard and they sound really tight.

KOMMANDANT

"Stormlegion"

This is a re-issued/re-mastered release from Kommandant and the band is straight up black metal with NO ballads, NO mellow moments & NO shit....this is just pure, straight up, heavy as shit metal which was created to scare your neighbors!

What's cool about this record is you can literally play any track besides the intro & outro and you will get the same aggression, same anger, same angst....this is a vile record and I mean that in the best way possible because from start to finish the aggression never lets up.

Fans of Venom & Slayer will dig this record!
