

Yahowa 13 are back!

Longtime L.A. residents may remember the Source Family, a religious group of young people who ran a local health food restaurant and also performed improvisational music with father figure Father Yod. Father Yod passed away long ago, and Yahowa 13 had not performed for 30 years until recently.

Now, spurred on by the release of a book about the Source Family, Yahowa 13 original members Djin, Octavius and Sunflower are once again adjusting attitudes with improvised psychedelia dripping with mind-melting guitar, low end throb and cryptic chanting. Their reunion album is called Sonic Portation, and it's available now from Prophase. 📀
