Echo & The Bunnymen - Dancing Horses (dvd Secret Films/Secret Records)

Posted on 11 Jun, 2007 - Bookmark at del.icio.us

The main part of this dvd is all about a live performance of 'The Bunnymen' at Shepards Bush Empire (London) in 2005. Ian McCulloch and William Sergeant (the only members from the original line up) are reinforced by 4 live musicians to perform a perfect cocktail of E&TB wide discography. The best songs remain for sure the 'immortal' ones they've written in the 80s. "Bring on the dancing horses", "The back of love", "The killing moon", "Never stop", "The cutter" or yet "Ocean rain" made the fame of this English combo from Liverpool. This concert is quite sober with I. McCulloch standing behind his mike and smoking in between the songs. I've seen him already sing drunk, but during this show he was rather concentrated. His voice remained one of the typical trademarks of 'The Bunnymen'. The good-old black new-wave image has been rather lost although Ian is still staring at the audience behind his eternal sunglasses. Next to the concert the fans will be pleased by an exclusive (long) interview with founding members McCulloch and Sergeant. They here talk about very different things like the link between the band and the football team of Liverpool, the music they were listening, Pete de Freitas, their latest album "Siberia", the tracklist of the dvd and many other things. A must have for the fans. I personally regret they didn't play my 2 favorite 'Bunnymen' songs ever: "Do it clean" and "Over the wall". www.secretrecordslimited.com (DP: 7)DP.
