There are jokes, situations, and physical humor that is predictable as well as near-moronic. The last lingering vestiges of a horror film are quickly deep-sixed, although the cast wasn't informed and seem willing to go through with the charade anyway. I mean, when the characters decide to throw a party and get drunk so they don't have to be afraid of the killer lurking around outside the house, that's pretty minimal.

However, in comparison, some of the other scenes shine. I couldn't believe the "Flashdance" sequence even as I sat there watching it roll. No way could they get a guy to do that. But he did, and it wasn't half-bad. Even though I never wanted to see anything like that again.

The movie was made back in 2006 and is just now out on DVD. Two other Bikini Bloodbath films have already been made and are awaiting release. Amusingly, both of those have pretty much the same cast as in this film that were slaughtered. So they're just going to be renamed and killed again. They also have another movie coming out, London Betty, again featuring many of the same participants.

Maybe these movies aren't ones you want to write home and tell Mom about, but the cast and crew seem to be having fun. And for male college students looking for something to do while killing a Friday or Saturday night, this could be the perfect no-brainer movie.
