"Earache My Eye" DVD

Earache Records has long enjoyed a reputation for offering some of the most brutal, uncompromising music that the heavy metal world has ever heard. Hardcore, grindcore, deathcore, metalcore, rotten-to-the-core - Earache has unleashed it all on an unsuspecting world over the past two decades.

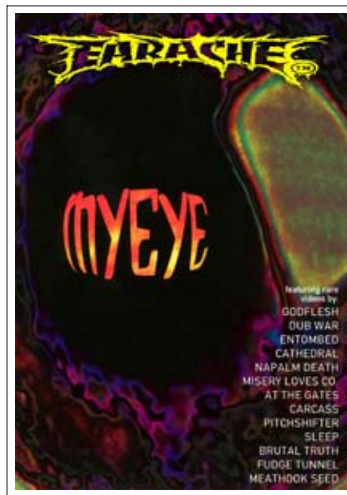

Originally released on VHS videotape back in 1989,

Earache My Eye offers a visual bludgeoning for metal fans that haven't found the aural assault of the label's regular album releases sufficient enough to provoke a long-term coma.

Earache My Eye has been out-of-print for a long time and has since become a coveted collector's item among extreme metal aficionados. Thanks to the headbanging fools at Music Video Distributors, this fine collection of musical mayhem will be available on DVD for the first time on April 15, 2008.

Earache My Eye offers up a full hour of musical torture, 60-minutes of full-blown, blow-out-the-speakers, blowin' yer mind metal chaos with videos from some of the hardest core of extreme music. Among the thrill-a-minute vids here are Entombed's "Wolverine Blues," "Crush My Soul" from Godflesh, Napalm Death's "Greed Killing," and "No Love Lost" from Carcass. Also among the strong baker's dozen offered by Earache My Eye are videos from Dub War, At The Gates, Cathedral, Pitchshifter, Sleep, Brutal Truth and others. At a ridiculously righteous list price of $14.95, you won't find a better way of entertaining yourself short of taking a jackhammer to a pile of rubble. Be there or be square...
